MIAMI — The MIAMI Association of REALTORS® (MIAMI) has elected Fort Lauderdale broker Patricia C. Anglero as its 2018 Broward Council president. She and all of MIAMI's leadership boards were installed Feb. 2 at the MIAMI 2018 Inaugural and Awards Celebration.

The Broward Council is dedicated to leadership, the real estate profession and the communities they serve. MIAMI membership has risen steadily in Broward County, and now includes more than 11,000 members. With more than 46,000 members, MIAMI is the largest local Realtor association in the nation.

"I'm looking forward to working with my Broward County Board of Governors," said Anglero, who is the broker/owner of Galleria International Realty. "I want to engage more Realtors and work to continue the high level of professionalism that we have in our industry."

Anglero is a native of Angola, Africa of Portuguese descent. Having lived half of her life in several countries and the other half in the United States has given her a broad understanding of international business, an important attribute in a global metropolis like South Florida.

Anglero attended the University of Florida and studied microbiology and cell science until 1997 when she married her husband. Anglero became a U.S. citizen.

Anglero's love for real estate began back in 2002 when she assisted a multi-million-dollar producer friend. Real estate felt natural. She acquired her real estate license in 2003 and started her career with Galleria Collection of Fine Homes that same year.

Anglero began selling high-rise condominium residences as a sales executive and later as a sales director assisting the broker with several developer accounts.

Anglero, who owns Galleria International Realty, dedicates her time and knowledge as a full-time presence at the office on Las Olas where real estate is treated as a people business and where agents come to get the support they need.
