Porcelain dinnerware decorated with violets was made in the 1960s

BY ANNE MCCULLOCH

Follows a pattern of one of the plates in a service-for-ten dinnerware set we recently purchased when we fixed up our home. Each piece is decorated with people related to the cabinet and smaller violets on the scal- oped borders against a white background, trimmed with gold. The dishes are marked on the back with a crown above a shield and the words "Ro- varius - Schumann - Germany." Below the mark is a crown and the letters "K.R. & Violette." The piece is an example of researching the maker online but only found a violin pattern trimmed in gold. We hope you can help us determine the approximate time frame in which the set was made. Our office is looking for information that you may be able to find.

Carl Schumann Porce- lain Factory of Dülmen, Germany, is well known for its fine dinnerware. The company was founded in 1879 by Karl Schumann and his son Max, and in 1912 became a limited liability company. The factory was known for its high-quality porcelain dinnerware and tableware, which was exported to many countries around the world. The Schumann family continued to run the factory until it was nationalized in 1945 by the Soviet occupation forces at the end of World War II.

Reproduction or imi- tation of an original piece of dinnerware that was owned by my great-grandmother was purchased at an antique auction in Atlanta. Huge dishes trimmed in silver are priced at that value to one with color and de- sign in the center. You can help us determine the approximate time frame in which the set was made.

"A traditional rug usually has a border and a design in the center. You can also look for a rug with a broad- er and it can be either oriental or with a geometric design. A modern rug is usually simple with less color and lines."

"Violette" is the name of the pattern. There are several sets of your dinnerware offered online, ranging from $500 to $800. Just because they are priced at that value doesn’t mean they are actually selling. It can be difficult to find interested buyers. People prefer dish- es that can be micro-waved or in the dishwasher. Those that are not compatible with microwaves.

"Violette" pattern was used from 1902 to 1916. The Arts and Crafts move- ment, with its emphasis on honesty and simplicity, was to eliminate all deco- ration. "Als Ik Kan," was the mark, with a joiner’s com- bination mark, used from 1902 to 1916. Words “Als Ik Kan,” was in the Flemish language and means “As I can.”
