Automatic Listing Import:

All your new "For Sale - Residential" listings will be imported into your MLS Offers account by default and updated approximately every hour. When you add a listing to the MLS, it can take from 0-60 minutes to show up in your MLS Offers account and be available for offers, depending on when it was added in relation to our import schedule.

For all rentals, leases and non-residential listings, you will need to log into your MLS Offers account and import those yourself. Login > click listings > click import from MLS button > select listings to import.

We highly encourage you to watch our overview demo to better understand how the platform works and see all the great features available to you. Watch here: www.mlsoffers.com/our-demo

The demo will cover how to manage your offers, set up offer instructions and provide disclosures, reply to and counteroffers, reply to multiple offers, amend or withdraw offers, create offer reports for sellers, create a custom url for your offers, create and use canned messages, share closing info with the other agent and more.

Don't Want To Use MLS Offers?

We Do Not Recommend Deactivating your MLS Offers Account Completely: It is likely you will eventually need it to submit an offer to another agent who is using this service on their listings, and you will need your account to do that. So instead of deactivating your account, we suggest just toggling the above to Disable when you add each new listing.
